

M. CAIN RESTS AT GRAPEVINE CEMETERY

Passed Away at St. Joseph Infirmary, Louisville, Last Friday Morning.

FUNERAL SUNDAY FROM THE RESIDENCE OF GEO. M. DAVIS, AT MADISONVILLE.

Multitude of Relatives and Friends Pay Respects to the Dead.

TALK AT GRAVE BY JAS. R. RASH LIFETIME FRIEND AND ASSOCIATE.

Many Floral Tributes Testify to Love and Affection For M. Cain.

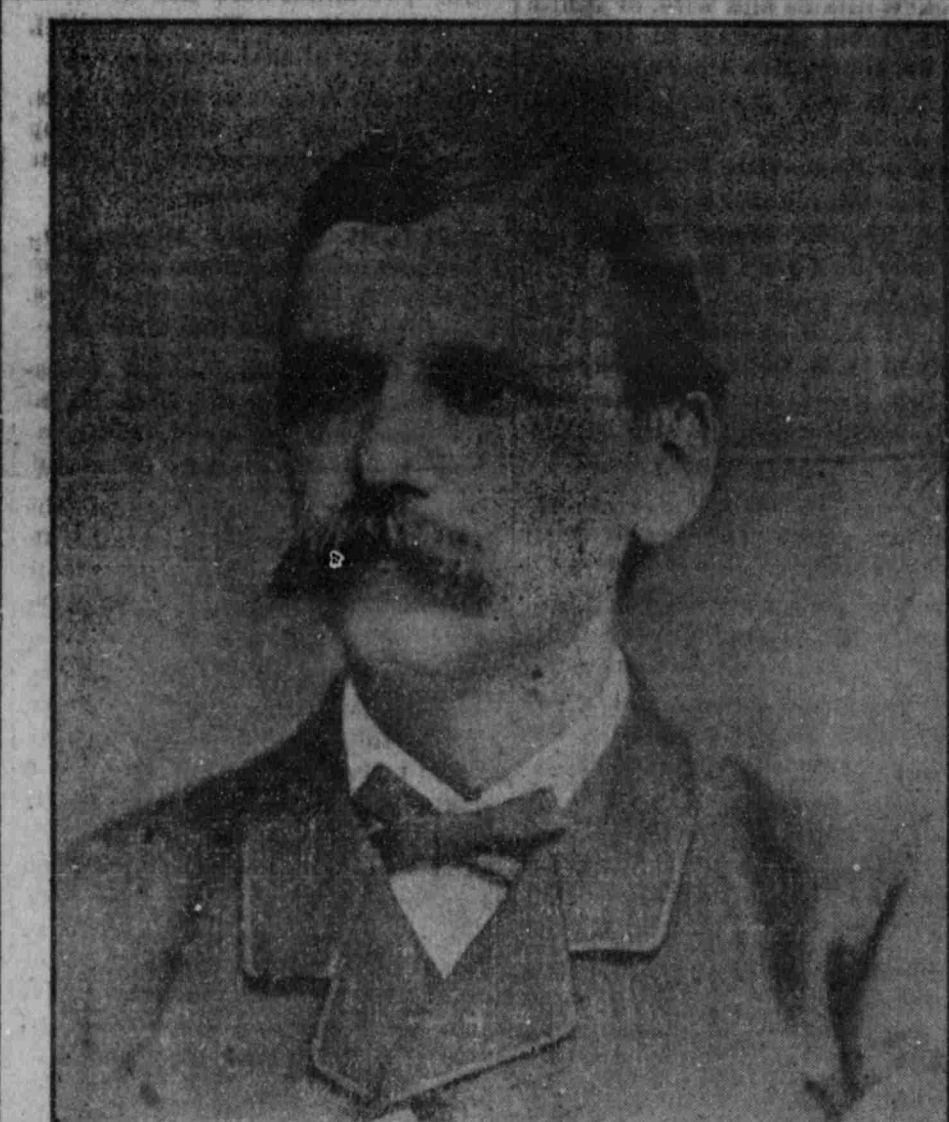

The abundant and beautiful floral offerings that decorated the room where he lay in state and smothered the earth above his last resting place were but the sudden blossoming of a sentiment which is twined around the personality of many a friend and whose roots reach down deep into the lives of a multitude, brightened and cheered in past years by kindly word or deed, or the helping hand of Mike Cain. These hot house flowers, emblems, were overshadowed on all sides by the spontaneous expressions of grief from people in all stations of life, testifying to the true worth of the departed friend, telling of the modesty, the purity, the usefulness of his life, and of its devotion to his friends and to righteous deeds.

Michael Cain died at the St. Joseph Infirmary, Louisville, on Friday morning, March 5, 1910, at 5:55 o'clock, after a long illness and a surgical operation there the week previous, for the purpose of relief, when it appeared that this was the only hope for his recovery. He was surrounded by his wife and son, Frank, and Dr. A. W. Davis, his brother-in-law, when the end came. They had been with him constantly, and the best that science and love and prayer could do had been done. He knew and faced death with all courage, and was ready, feeling only the regret at separation and the sorrow of those he left.

Mr. Cain was well known in business circles in Louisville and there were many there who listened daily for better news and who, when hope was ended, tendered every possible service. Mrs. Cain and party were escorted from Louisville by relatives, leaving there, at noon Friday, and by special arrangement were taken on the interurban train to Madisonville that afternoon. Some thirty or more friends and relatives met the party at Nortonville, going from Nortonville, Earlington and Madisonville. The remains were taken to the home of Mrs. Cain's father, Mr. Geo. M. Davis, at Madisonville, from where the funeral was to be held. And the body of their friend was there, tenderly borne from the train and escorted by six of his nearest friends and business associates, to the Davis residence.

Mike Cain was born in county Galway, Ireland, in 1852, and was therefore in his 57th year when he died. He never knew his mother nor his father, both of whom died before he was two years old. At that age he was brought to America by an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings. At some time during his boyhood they lived at Shelbyville, Ky., and afterwards in Caldwell county. His aunt, Mrs. Mary Jennings, lives now at Crescent Hill, near Louisville. When a youth Mr. Cain worked hard to educate himself and afterward became a school teacher. While teaching school at or near St. Charles, he was called to Earlington to fill the unexpired term of Professor Skein, a pedagog of considerable note who taught hereabouts for some years. From this he took occupation with the then "St. Bernard Coal Co.," now St. Bernard Mining Co., some several years ago, as a clerk in the Earlington store under Mr. Thos. J. McEuen, then the store manager, and his connection with this concern was continuous thereafter until the day of his death. He was a stockholder and director of the St. Bernard Mining Company, and for years past manager of the store at Mortons Gap, besides being in close touch with other branches of the business.

A short service was held at the residence, at 1:30 o'clock Sunday, participated in by Rev. Litchfield and Rev. Bernard. At the grave Mr. James R. Rash, lifelong friend of the deceased, delivered an oration in which he outlined the life and character and paid beautiful tribute to the departed.

The active pallbearers were: C. D. Cole, Cleveland Medlock, Dan M. Evans, Chas. H. McGary, Paul M. Moore, Virgil Bacon, Frank D. Rash and W. R. Coyle.

The honorary pallbearers were: John B. Atkinson, George O. Atkinson, James R. Rash, Charles Owen, F. B. Harris and B. T. Robinson.

The company of kindred and friends that went with or preceded the remains of Mike Cain to his grave at Grapevine cemetery Sunday afternoon, was very large, and many others paid their respects at the residence from which the funeral cortege moved. Among these were many employees of the St. Bernard Mining Co., who cherish the memory of his uniform kindness and helpfulness to them.

SATISFACTORY RESULTS EXPECTED BY L. & N. CONDUCTORS

Conference now being held with General Manager Starks at Louisville.

A conference between B. M. Starks, general manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and members of the general committee of adjutant of the Order of Railroad Conductors was held yesterday afternoon at which a new wage scale for the employees was under consideration. Announcement was made after the meeting at the railroad had not formally accepted the new scale, asking for a slight increase, but the prospects are encouraging for a satisfactory understanding either today or tomorrow.

The members of the committee have been in session here at the Willard Hotel for two days, talking over the new scale which was drawn up at Evansville January 11. It resembles in nearly every particular the old scale, which will soon expire. For this reason the conductors do not anticipate that the officials will hesitate to accept it.

L. B. Waltz, of Evansville, chairman of the committee, stated that the members of the committee have been very cordially received by the official and that the answer of the company will not be held up, as is customary on some railroads, but will be given before the members of the committee leave the city.

Mr. Waltz was asked what important change was made in the schedule. He said that the changes are few and in their nature not important at all. He said that the old schedule was satisfactory to both sides and that there is no cause for complaint.
